

ALICE BACKPACK

Made in Various US States

100% Water Repellent Military Specified Fabrics

- * Rock and Enzyme Wash Treatment for Softness
- * Widely Varied Shades of Green (Moss to Dark Hunter Green)
- * Large Drawstring Pouch
- * Three Small Snap Pouches
- * Quick Release Removable Straps
- * Custom Numbered WCF Tag
- * Each bag has been used by Military but is Suitable for Recreational Use
- * Dimensions: Appx. 16"H 13"W 5"D
- * Repurposed Limited Run Item

Story:

The ALICE (All-Purpose Lightweight Individual Carrying Equipment) Backpack was designed by the U.S. Military in 1973 to replace the M-1956 LCE line. This medium sized pack was created to carry 50 lbs of your “existence load items” into combat. Sort of similar to bringing your laptop into the office, or whatever. ALICE includes one large drawstring compartment, three small snap pouches, quick-release removable straps and is made from water repellent military specified fabrics. There’s also tunneled webbing storage under the main compartment, should you frequently tote a bayonet scabbard or machete sheath. This pack has the ability to attach to a frame but is most commonly carried using just the (included) shoulder straps. Our custom refurbishing includes a tough rock enzyme wash to soften the material and each backpack is finished with an individually numbered WCF ID tag.

We found a spattering of miscellaneous items left in these bags, from whistles to canteen covers. About one out of every seven bags will include an envelope with a recovered item enclosed.